Cost-Effectiveness analyses on various projects and grant proposals. Analysis on the relationship between children's mental health and primary caregiver's labor supply. Statistical data analysis, data manipulation of longitudinal data; preparation of result sections, and presentation of research results in conferences.

2000- date FUSADES El Salvador
Principal Investigator

Conduct research on Latin American Development issues. Write grant proposals. During 2000-2001, I was awarded a grant by the Inter-American Development Bank to study the impact of the geographic exclusion on individual's labor market outcomes. I used a Household Rural Panel Salvadoran data to study the mechanisms that leads to women's social and geographic exclusion and its consequences on their labor force participation decision, sector of employment, and labor income.

2000- Sep 2001 Vanderbilt University Nashville, TN
Consultant, Center for Mental Health Policy, VIPPS

Econometric analysis and marketing evaluation including problem identification, statistical analysis using SAS, report preparation and result presentation. Conducting research on optimal mailing distribution systems and supporting the customer relationship marketing evaluation division. Cost-Effectiveness analyses on various projects and grant proposals.

1998-July 2000 Vanderbilt University Nashville, TN
Post-Doctoral Fellow in Research Evaluation

- Econometric analysis of individual longitudinal data for various projects such as the Fort Bragg "Continuum of care" Longitudinal Evaluation, the Innovative Children's Mental Health Services project (Stark County, Ohio), Cooperative Agreement for CMHS/CSAT

Collaborative Program on Homeless Families, and providing econometric analysis to a large retail-department store to determine mailing effectiveness. Write reports and co-authored articles for publication.

- Cost-effectiveness analyses on various projects and grant proposals such as the Mental Health Wraparound Demonstration and three AD/HD studies: 1) Enhancing ADHD Rx Effectiveness by Pediatricians and Schools and Diagnosis; 2) Treatment of AD/HD in Pediatric Primary Care; 3) The Effect of Protocol Adherence on AD/HD treatment.

1996–1998 Vanderbilt University Nashville, TN
Research Assistant

- SAS programmer, data management, assisting in statistical analysis for large individual longitudinal data.

Summer 1996 Inter-American Development Bank Washington, DC
Consultant in Labor Economics

To study the labor market of El Salvador and provide the bank terms of reference on basic outline, methodology, and key measurements any labor market analysis should include. The bank wanted to encourage other researchers to use a standardized methodology to facilitate later cross-country comparisons. The final report was published as “The Urban Labor Market in El Salvador, 1980-1995.”

Summer 1995 Vanderbilt University Nashville, TN

- Instructor teaching Intermediate Macroeconomics (Econ 232).

1993–1996 Vanderbilt University Nashville, TN
Teaching Assistant

- Teaching assistant for Statistics, Income Inequalities, Human Resources, and other seminars such as European Economic Integration, and the Seminar on Prices and

1990–1991 Ministry of Economy San Salvador, El Salvador
Advisor to the Minister of Economy

- My main role was to participate in the elaboration of Industrial Recovery Program. A commission was created for this whole purpose; the commission had representatives from the Economic Commission for Latin American and the Caribbean (ECLAC), the private industrial sector, the academia, government representatives, and workers groups. After the creation of the plan I actively participated in the negotiations between Honduras and El Salvador to re-installed bilateral commerce activities between both countries on sensitive industrial and some agro products that were identified in the recovery plan.

1985–1987 Universidad Centroamericana Jose Simeon Cañas El Salvador
